DAVISON MEMORIAL WALKING PARK

The 14.88 acre property was donated to the Town of East Haddam in 1977 by Edith Carroll Davison, who intended that it be utilized as a walking park. The property is accessed at the end of a dead end road. The trail climbs to a peak which provides spectacular views from the southeast to the northwest. During World War II there was an observation tower used by American soldiers to spot enemy aircraft. A U.S. Geodetic Survey disc marks the location of the highest point (364 feet above Sea Level). Cave Hill is one of the sites attributable to the 'Moodus Noises'.
